THE EDITORIAL BOARD is pleased to announce the appearance of this new academic journal for the Caribbean and the Caribbean diaspora.

Articles will

- explore the theories, practice, research and new thinking in social work with special reference to the Caribbean
- include topics of interest to social workers and social work educators

OBJECTIVES:

- a) to promote scholarship of high quality by attracting contributions from various sources of research, analysis and exemplary practice modes in Caribbean social work literature;
- b) to inform social work education and practice in the Caribbean by updating the knowledge and skills base of educators and practitioners;
- c) to inform social work practice external to the Caribbean region, especially that affecting the West Indian diaspora in metropolitan countries.
